The River and Harbor Bill.

The River and Harbor bill has been completed, and its provisions given to the public. It has been eliminated of all the objectionable features contained in the last bill and which caused so much complaint and furnished so much political capital during the campaign last fall. The appropriations provided for in the bill are only for places of national importance, and where the necessity of commerce requires it. The total amount appropriated by the bill is $8,450,000. The following are the leading appropriations for improvements in Michigan.

Detroit river	$50,000
Sand Beach harbor of refuge	25,000
Saginaw river, opposite Bay City and below	25,000
Above Bay City	25,000
Grand Haven	25,000
Muskegon	15,000
Ontonagon	15,000
Cheboygan	8,000
Hay Lake Channel	150,000
Charlevoix	4,000
Frankfort	10,000
Manistee	10,000

There can be no question of the propriety of these appropriations. The $8,000 for the Cheboygan harbor is much needed to continue the work already far advanced, so that a sufficient depth of water may be had to accommodate the traffic of the port. Much inconvenience has been experienced in the past from lack of depth in the channel and the larger lake crafts have on this account been prevented from coming in. With the unexpended balance of the last appropriation added to this, it should give us water enough to enable deeply laden crafts to enter and depart at all times. We trust there may be no reduction of the amount as it is all needed.

Harbor of refuge at Grand Marais, Mich., got $40,000 last time, nothing in this bill; Pentwater, Cedar River, Saugatuck, Portage Lake, and St. Joseph, Mich., all had liberal appropriations last year, nothing now.

The Marine Laws.

A special Washington telegram to the Inter-Ocean says Representative McLean has introduced in the House a resolution instructing the Secretary of the Treasury to detail three competent persons from his department as a commission to visit the large maritime cities of the east, south, west and north with full power to inquire into the marine laws governing the ocean, lake and river navigation regarding the wants, needs, abuses, and changes required to assist our growing commerce, securing to owners, officers, and pilots of all coastwise vessels, steamers on lakes and rivers, and other crafts their legal and just rights; also to secure seamen, sailors, deckhands and the crews all their rights and privileges, including health, comfort and conveniences, which will be for the benefit of our national commerce, not only protecting the capital invested and encouraging continuous protection, but giving to those employed in this dangerous and precarious mode of living a guarantee that they shall and must have due recognition. The commission is to prepare a full report of their investigations and conclusions, which shall be transmitted by the Secretary of the Treasury to the next Congress, suggesting such laws and amendments as in his opinion will be for the benefit of commerce and of national importance.

Battle of Gettysburg.

Next Monday evening, at the Opera House, our citizens will have an opportunity to hear Gen. Luther Stephenson, Jr., deliver his graphic description of this celebrated and historic battle. The lecturer and lecture are spoken of in the highest terms. The General was a participant in that battle, and vividly portrays the exciting scenes and incidents connected therewith. The lecture is illustrated, so that many of the scenes are not only portrayed by the speaker, but his audience will be shown in the illustrations some of the most important features, incidents and participants in this three-days' fight, which proved the turning point in deciding the terrible conflict to settle whether or not this was a nation. No one should fail to attend this lecture. All will get better ideas of the terrible conflict than by reading pages of history.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting.—Important Amendment to Constitution Adopted.—Report of Treasurer, &c.

The annual meeting of the Cheboygan County Agricultural society was held at the Opera House last Saturday with about the usual number in attendance. The minutes of the last annual meeting and intervening meetings were read and approved. Those present paid their membership fees and received their tickets. The treasurer read his report, showing a balance of $78.25 on hand.

Upon motion of F. M. Sammons $50 was ordered paid on the rent of the fair grounds.

The following resolution was, upon motion, adopted:

Resolved, That all persons having premiums due them from the society be required to present their claims for the same within the next thirty days from date and that all premiums not demanded within that time be declared forfeited.

The following amendment to the constitution was unanimously adopted:

That Sec. 3 of the constitution of this society be amended so as to read after the word "constitution" and before the words "the president" as follows: "Said officers shall be elected at an annual meeting of said society, to be held on the third Saturday in October in each year, for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may come before said society," and after the words "hold their respective offices for one year" to read as follows: "From the first day of January thereafter and until their successors are elected and qualified."

We think the amendment a good one. Holding the election during the time of the fair, when everybody was busy and interested in the exhibition, was bad policy, as no one was able to give the attention that should be given upon so important a question as the selection of officers. Upon the officers elected depends the success of the society, and it should be the object of all to see that only those who will take an interest in it and work for its success are put in office. We are glad to state that there is a disposition upon the part of the present management to take hold of the matter and work to give our county, next fall, the best fair since the organization of the society.

Land Locked Salmon.

Mr. Walter Marks, connected with the state fish hatchery arrived in the village Monday evening with 25,000 land-locked salmon spawn. An arrangement had been made with Wm. Elliot to hatch them at his hatchery. Tuesday they were taken down to the hatchery, and Mr. Elliot showed Mr. Marks around as well as he could for the deep snow, showing him the location of the different streams etc. Mr. Marks was very favorably impressed with the advantages of the situation, and was very much pleased with the arrangement in the hatchery house for hatching and caring for the fish. We understand it is the intention to place these salmon, when they are of sufficient size, in the inland waters of the state. We trust our inland lakes may get a portion of them, and can see no reason why they should not. They are the most convenient to the hatchery and it would be less trouble to get them in, and certainly less danger from injury in transportation. There are no more beautiful lakes in the state than those of this county, nor none, we should judge, better adapted to the propagation of this species of fish. It would be quite an acquisition to obtain a supply of this variety. Will not some of our influential and public spirited citizens interest themselves in the matter and try and secure a portion of the fry for our lakes?

Hemlock Timber.

Hemlock timber, once considered of but little, if any, value, is beginning to come to the front, and the indications are that the day is not far off when it will be in demand. There are vast quantities of the timber in this region, and the owners of land containing large bodies of this timber, heretofore considered only valuable for its bark, may find that it will add to their wealth considerably. The Manistee Democrat says:

We are pleased to note that hemlock timber, heretofore considered too valuable to pay for operating, is rapidly coming to the front and the demand is steadily increasing. For some purposes it is considered even superior to pine or other timber. Parties in this section are already turning their attention to the manufacture of this timber on quite an extensive scale, and that it will figure quite prominently as an item of importance in the future is not a mere matter of conjecture. There are large tracts of hemlock all over this section of country, and its profitable manufacture is a matter of concern to all interested in the growth and permanency of Manistee.

Some years ago a man named Comstock who had been cashier of a bank at Muskegon left the city, with the bank his creditor for a large sum. The bank took a $20,000 policy on his life, with the Northwestern Insurance company. Comstock has since died, and the company contests payment. Hence a suit has been begun by the bank.

The headlights of several locomotives congregated in the D. G. H. & M. railroad yard, Detroit, produced such a bright reflection on the sky at 3 o'clock last Saturday morning, that the watchman in the city hall tower turned on a fire alarm from box 27 and called out the engines! Their services, of course, were not needed.
